Tarka's Route

Anne Williamson

To help the photographer, Simon McBride, whose work illustrates the beautifully produced Webb & Bower edition of Tarka the Otter (1985), I prepared a list of map references which would enable him to find the key sites easily. With the thought that this list might also be useful to some of our members and possibly to students unfamiliar with the actual countryside, it is reproduced here, embellished with appropriate quotations.

Maps used were Ordnance Survey 1:50 000, Sheet 180, Barnstaple and Ilfracombe; Sheet 191, Okehampton and North Dartmoor For those unfamiliar with map references; the letters refer to a particular square kilometre on the National Grid System (this is indicated in the information provided on each particular map); the first three numbers are 'eastings' and read along from west to east; the last three numbers are 'northings' and read up from south to north. A little practice soon clears any confusion.

numbers are '	northings' and read up from south to north. A little practice soon clears any confusion.
CHAPTER		MAP
NO.		REFERENCE
1	Twilight upon meadow and water, the eve-star shining above the hill, and Old Nog the heron crying kra-a-ark! as his slow dark wings carried him down the estuary. A whiteness drifting above the sere reeds of the riverside, for the owl had flown from under the middle arch of the stone bridge that once carried the canal across the river.
	Canal Bridge Owlery Holt	SS474209
	(Beam mansion is a school; it is possible to park off the road and to walk up the river bank in both directions. Beam Weir is upriver and Weare Giffard below.)
2	While the moon was full and bright the otters went to hunt the fish lying in the Tunnel Pool below Halfpenny Bridge — bass, grey mullet, and flukes, or flat-fish. The cubs were two months old and they had learned to squeeze through the inner opening of the holt, and run along the root, in order to play on the grassy bank.
	Mostly in the same area as in Ch.1 above.	CC455010
	Halfpenny Bridge	SS475210
3	Calling the cubs to follow her, she sank into the water and swam upstream At the end of the night, Burnt Sycamore Holt lay a mile and a half behind them The bitch led them out of the water, through willows and ash trees and brambles, and across a narrow-gauge railway track to the fir plantation. Upstream towards Torrington
	Narrow-gauge railway, follow along to	SS481197
Figure 2	Badslake Farm	SS475165
	Willeswell Moor	SS496134 SSE05125
	Clay Pits Marland Moor (Marland Jimmy)	SS505125 SS510119
	Blackdagger Pond is somewhere here	35510117
4	The brook was a haunt of dippers, whose cries were sudden as the cries of water-and-stones;
	Mere Brook	SS525110
	Braund's Hill Wood
	Sallow Islet
5	They hunted and ragrowstered for many days under the high wooded hills, below which the river wound and coiled like a serpent Early one morning the south-westerly wind arose from off the Atlantic, and brought fast low clouds over the land The river pushed to the sea with the fresh brown flood-water the otters rode down on the fresh, over the spillway of the Dark weir under Rothern Bridge round a bend to where the smooth and thundering fall-over of the bubble-whitened water slanted across the river,
	Merton Millpond	SS538126
	Beaford Water (bridge) Dark Hams Weir	SS543143
	Rothern Bridge (below Torrington)	SS480197
	Beam Weir	SS475206
	Canal Bridge (as before) Beam Pool ('Shiner')	SS474209 SS475206
6	The otters followed the eels down the river the brown water rocked them down soon the sweep of the fresh lessened, for the tide was pressing against the river In front twenty-four arches, of different shapes and sizes, bore the long bridge They drifted with the tide up the other horn of the estuary, and turned into Branton Pill, and arrived at the Ram's-horn duckpond. Downriver to Leaning Willow Island, Halfpenny Bridge
	Lancarse Pill (Landcross Pillmouth)	SS463245
	Railway Bridge	ditto
	Long Bridge (Bideford Bridge)	SS456264
	The estuary Ram's-horn Pond	SS485338 SS487352
	Marstage Wall (farm marked)	SS484353
	 	and the second s

Tarka fished the pools and guts of the Branton pill One night a restlessness came over him, and he rode on the flood-tide to the head of the pill he went under the bridge and fished up the stream he had been travelling for an hour, when on a sandy scour he found the pleasing scent of otter. He whistled and hurried upstream. Branton Pill — upriver Caen Bridge (Caen River enters here) Buckland Meadow (North Buckland area)? Back down river — estuary One evening the otters set out on a journey. The bright eye of the lighthouse blinked in the clear air Two hours after midnight the otters had swam five miles along the shallow coast and had reached the cave of the headland. Lighthouse (disused) Bag Leap (Baggy Point) Wreckers' Path The otters were alarmed by the coming of the man, and that night they left the headland, returning to the Burrows, and hunting rabbits in the great warren of the sandhills For two days and two nights the frosty vapour lay over the Burrows, and then came a north wind which poured like liquid glass. Braunton Burrows (large area) Horsey Marsh Heauton Marsh — Ram's-horn Pond Branton Pill (as before)	SS495400 SS493402 SS458328 SS419407 SS450350 SS475336 SS487352
Caen Bridge (Caen River enters here) Buckland Meadow (North Buckland area)? Back down river — estuary One evening the otters set out on a journey. The bright eye of the lighthouse blinked in the clear air Two hours after midnight the otters had swam five miles along the shallow coast and had reached the cave of the headland. Lighthouse (disused) Bag Leap (Baggy Point) Wreckers' Path The otters were alarmed by the coming of the man, and that night they left the headland, returning to the Burrows, and hunting rabbits in the great warren of the sandhills For two days and two nights the frosty vapour lay over the Burrows, and then came a north wind which poured like liquid glass. Braunton Burrows (large area) Horsey Marsh Heauton Marsh — Ram's-horn Pond	SS493402 SS458328 SS419407 SS450350 SS475336 clear air Two hours after midnight the otters had swam five miles along the shallow coast and had reached the cave of the headland. Lighthouse (disused) Bag Leap (Baggy Point) Wreckers' Path The otters were alarmed by the coming of the man, and that night they left the headland, returning to the Burrows, and hunting rabbits in the great warren of the sandhills For two days and two nights the frosty vapour lay over the Burrows, and then came a north wind which poured like liquid glass. Braunton Burrows (large area) Horsey Marsh Heauton Marsh — Ram's-horn Pond	SS419407 SS450350 SS475336
Wreckers' Path The otters were alarmed by the coming of the man, and that night they left the headland, returning to the Burrows, and hunting rabbits in the great warren of the sandhills For two days and two nights the frosty vapour lay over the Burrows, and then came a north wind which poured like liquid glass. Braunton Burrows (large area) Horsey Marsh Heauton Marsh — Ram's-horn Pond	SS450350 SS475336 to the Burrows, and hunting rabbits in the great warren of the sandhills For two days and two nights the frosty vapour lay over the Burrows, and then came a north wind which poured like liquid glass. Braunton Burrows (large area) Horsey Marsh Heauton Marsh — Ram's-horn Pond	SS475336
Horsey Marsh Heauton Marsh — Ram's-horn Pond
	JJ-10/JJL
The tide beyond the tail of the Shrarshook was divided by a string of froth made by the leap and chop of waters beginning to move north and south The swans turned north, borne by the tide racing past Crow Island Every day on the Burrows was a period of silence under a vapour-ringed sun that slid into night glowing and quivering with the zones and pillars of the Northern Lights.
Shrarshook and Crow Island White House Shingle Ram's-horn Pond (as before)	SS467320 SS470330
Caen Farm ? Scur Farmyard ?	SS480359
	SS475345
clouds Tarka ran past a heap of turves, set around the base of a post marking Cranmere tarn By pools and waterfalls and rillets the river Taw grew. Great Kneeset (Dartmoor) Cranmere Pool The R. Taw rises at — then follow down to Cosdon Beacon (Cawsand) Watchet Hill Belstone Cleave Follow river downstream (flowing northwards)	SX589859 SX603858 SX610860 SX635915 SX616930 SX630936
Below one bridge the river slowed into a wide pool where the waters of a smaller south-flowing river meditated before turning north with big brother Taw. Junction Pool Shaggery's bed 'last bridge above the tide' is apparently that below Chapelton The road bridge is New Bridge Spady Gut (small creek below New Bridge)	SS662177 SS627220 SS576272 SS570283
Through the soft pasture ground the river roamed, coiling and uncertain. The tide water filling it gleamed dully like a seal's hide, greyish brown and yellow freckled Working down the river, crossing from side to side and searching for fish under stones and in deep holes, he left the grassy sloping tidewalls behind and passed by boats resting on a ridge of gravel above a long road-bridge. A long road-bridge — Barum Bridge (Barnstaple) Barum Yeo (Tarka turns up 'pill' — which enters on right hand bank just below bridge)	SS558329 SS553334
Pilton Bridge. Follow up the River Yeo to Swine Park — return — back up the Taw to Bishop's Tawton, turning into Landkey Brook Venn Pit's (quarries) Continue up to Swimbridge	SS564303 SS582306 SS620300
Exmoor is the high country of the winds, which are to the falcons and the hawks: served by rain- clouds and drained by rock-clittered streams, which are to the otters. How Tarka travels to Exmoor is not related; if he continued up Landkey Brook to its source he could easily cross over to the River Bray going upstream, say to Challacombe and thus across to The Chains Pinkworthy Pond Hoar Oak Hill Hoar Oak Water (leads off Chains to join the East Lyn at Watersmeet and thus Lynmouth)	SS693408 SS730425 SS723423 SS737427 SS733465 SS744486 of waters beginning to move north and south The steams turned north, borne by the tide racing past Crow Island Every day on the Burrows was a period of silence under a vapour-ringed sun that slid into night glowing and quivering with the zones and pillars of the Northern Lights. Shrarshook and Crow Island White House Shingle Ram's-horn Pond (as before) The Great Field Caen Farm? Scur Farmyard? Banton marsh Bogs and hummocks of the Great Kneeset were dimmed and occluded; the hill was higher than the clouds Tarka ran past a heap of turves, set around the base of a post marking Cranmere tarn By pools and waterfalls and rillets the river Taw grew. Great Kneeset (Dartmoor) Cranmere Pool The R. Taw rises at — then follow down to Cosdon Beacon (Cawsand) Watchet Hill Belstone Cleave Follow river downstream (flowing northwards) Below one bridge the river slowed into a wide pool where the waters of a smaller south-flowing river meditated before turning north with big brother Taw. Junction Pool Shaggery's bed 'last bridge above the tide' is apparently that below Chapelton The road bridge is New Bridge Spady Gut (small creek below New Bridge) Through the soft pasture ground the river roamed, coiling and uncertain. The tide water filling it gleamed dully like a seal's hide, greyish brown and yellow freckled Working down the river, crossing from side to side and searching for fish under stones and in deep holes, he left the grassy sloping tide-walls behind and passed by boats resting on a ridge of gravel above a long road-bridge. A long road-bridge — Barum Bridge (Barnstaple) Barum Yeo (Tarka turns up 'pill' — which enters on right hand bank just below bridge) Pilton Bridge, Follow up the River Yeo to Swine Park — return — back up the Taw to Bishop's Tawton, turning into Landkey Brook Venn Pit's (quarries) Continue up to Swinbridge Exmoor is the high country of the winds, which are to the falcons and the hawks: served by rain-clouds and drained by rock-clittered streams, which are 15	Here sunlight was shut out by the oaks and the roar of the first fall was beating back from the leaves. The current ran faster, narrowing into a race with twirls and hollows marking the sullen rocks. The		¥

	roar grew louder in a drifting spray. Ilkerton Water		66500450
	Lynton Road — the A39 possibly at Cherrybridge		SS702470
	Beggar's Roost Bridge	Til Til	SS710478
	Barbrook Mill all in area of		SS715477
	Glen Lyn Bridge		SS720485
	And so out to sea		SS724496
	A Table 1 and 1 and 2 an
16	Autumn's little Summer, when day and night were equal, and only the woodlark sang his wistful falling song over the bracken, was ruined by the gales that tore wave and leaf, and broke the sea into roar and spray, and hung white ropes over the rocks. Fog hid cliff top and stars as Tarka travelled westwards.
	East Cleave		SS645490
	Heddon Water — Heddon's Mouth Then west along coast — Honomer Paint		SS655498
	Then west along coast — Hangman Point Wild Pear Beach		SS583484
	Bull Point Lighthouse		SS578478
	Morte Stone		SS462479
	Morte Hoe		SS440456 SS450450
	Morte Bay (south from the Hoe)		SS455425
	Woolcombe Sands (Woolacombe)		SS465414
	Pickwell Down		33403414
	Georgeham — Skirr Cottage (where HWW lived)		SS464399
	Croyde		SS445394
17	White-tip and Tarka had followed the salmon up the big river, but at the beginning of the new year they had come down again. Drifting with the ebb under Halfpenny Bridge, they crossed the marsh and came to the Pool of the Six Herons, out of whose deep middle reared the black iron piers of the railway bridge.
	Horsey and Crow Point (off end of Burrows — as before)		SS465319
	Across the estuary and back up R. Torridge to Canal Bridge (as before)		SS474209
	Beam Weir (as before)		SS475206
	Halfpenny Bridge (as before)		SS475210
	Railway Bridge (as before)		SS463245
	Lancarse Yeo (as before)		ditto
	Orleigh Mill (up R. Yeo)		SS440225
	Lancarse Pill Rock up B. Tormides to Const Bridge		SS463245
	Back up R. Torridge to Canal Bridge
18	And there Deadlock, his black head scarred with old fights, sat on his haunches, apart and morose, watching for the yellow waistcoat of the Master.
	Town Mills, Torrington		SS500184
	Dark Hams Bend		SS503169
	Dark Hams Weir		SS503174
	Town Mills Leat (as above)		SS500184
	Town Mills (Tarka hides in wheel)		ditto
19	Tarka listened to (the hounds) working among the roots under the island bank, and across the river. He heard the chaunting voices of huntsmen and whippers-in
	The Rolle Straight		SS495187
	Taddiport Bridge		SS488187
	Elm Island (just below Railway Bridge)		SS481196
	Rothern Bridge		SS480197
	Beam Pool and Weir (as before)		00100177
	Furzebeam Hill		SS481204
20	At the beginning of the ninth hour a scarlet dragonfly whirred and darted over the willow snag, watched by a girl sitting on the bank. Her father, an old man lank and humped as a heron, was looking out near her.
	Beam Weir (as before)		SS475206
	Canal Bridge (as before)		SS474209
	and below
	And the tide slowed still, and began to move back And while they stood there silently, a great bubble rose out of the depths, and broke, and as they watched, another bubble shook to the surface

And the tide slowed still, and began to move back. . . And while they stood there silently, a great bubble rose out of the depths, and broke, and as they watched, another bubble shook to the surface and broke; and there was a third bubble in the sea-going waters, and nothing more.